BALLISTIC HISTORY

1993

Beginning with a customer sales request, A.G. Findings & Mfg. Co. manufactured 10,000 beeper chains and eventually became one of the largest manufacturers and distributors of paging products in North America in 1995.

The company launched the world's first and only all plastic belt clip that actually worked without breaking and quickly became known as the best belt clip by many companies in the world. By 2005, A.G. Findings & Mfg. Co. was manufacturing private label belt clips and cases for RIM, Motorola, AT&T, Sprint & Verizon Wireless which had to pass strict testing.

2010

A.G. Findings & Mfg. Co. realized there was an opportunity to create device protection the right way. The company saw an opportunity for another player to enter the rugged space to make a superior product than what was in the market: The Ballistic brand was born.

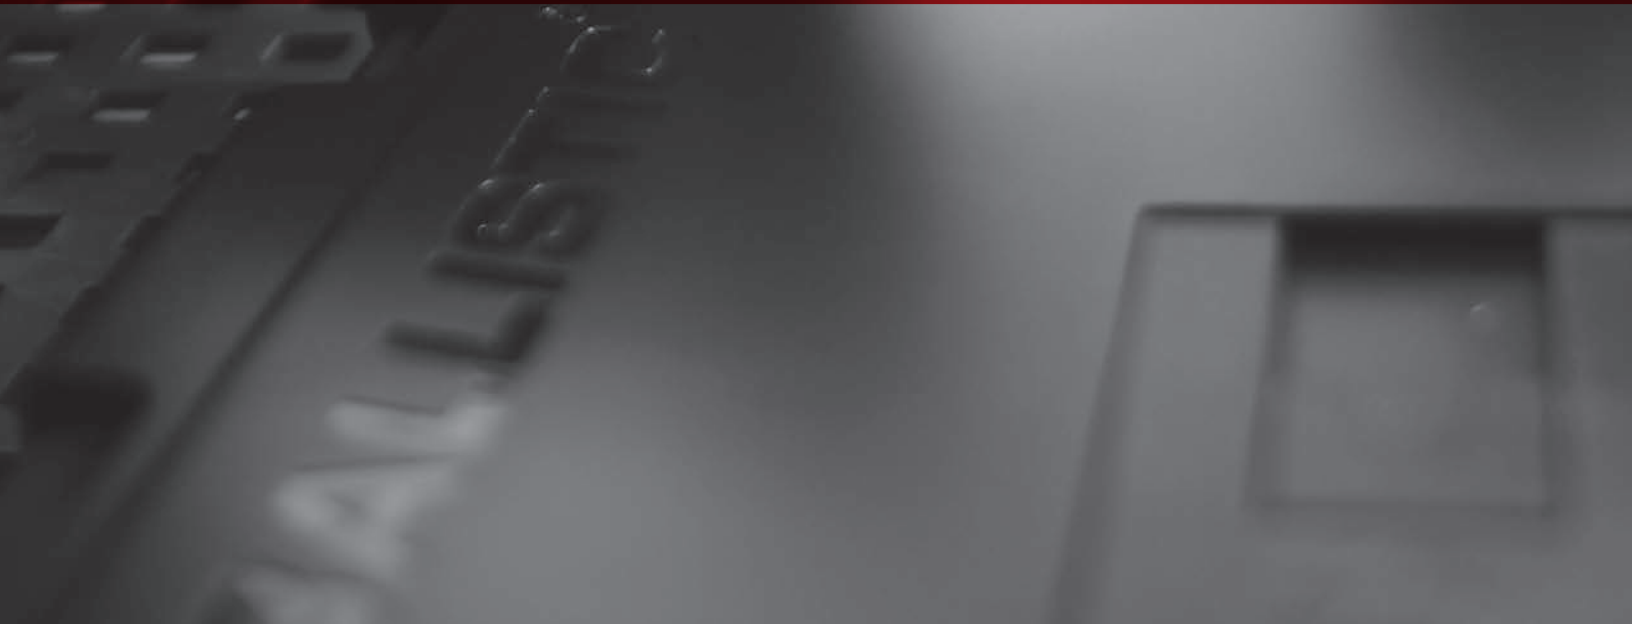

2014

The Ballistic team of engineers were faced with new protective design challenges that other manufacturers could not succeed in. After over 8,000 hours of hard work and dedication the birth of our first series, Hard Core, was born. Equipped with patent pending dual sided over molding and the first and only patented holster that works both with and without the gelskin, the Hard Core Series quickly became a raging success.

As technology continues to grow and the demand for slim protection continues to blossom, our philosophy has adapted across our entire series line-up. We currently have 7 different series spanning sleek to rugged which are created with the best protection you can find on the market today. Our innovation and HEXTEC™ technology continues to keep us a significant player in the accessory world. Stay tuned as we continue perfecting protection on a full spectrum of solutions for every lifestyle.
